Course Implementation

Prompted by a disappointing number of failures in their department's clinical math tests, Reading Area Community College nursing faculty adopted MyMathTest to deliver a preclinical mathematics review course for both the practical nursing and the registered nursing programs. The one-credit, hybrid review courses are offered just prior to the spring semester and include lecture, lab time, and required online practice.

Results and Data

Since adoption of the program in fall 2010, student feedback is very positive and data indicates a marked decrease in the number of failures and repeat test attempts.

Conclusions

"Based on both student survey responses and the data we've seen, I believe [MyMathTest] is extremely beneficial to our students and I will continue to use it," said Merilee Grimes, nursing program director.
